Guns for the '90s

Davis Takes the Lead in Affordable Personal Protection

Davis Industries believes in every American's constitutional right to keep and bear arms. We also recognize that in today's uncertain world, we can't always rely on our law enforcement officials to be there when we need them.

For these reasons, we have taken the lead in offering a range of firearms whose mission is to provide personal protection at a price within anyone's budget.

The Davis P-380

While our P-380 looks like its older brother, the P-32, we have made important internal modifications that allow us to chamber this tough little pocket pistol in the .380 Auto cartridge.

Like the P-32, the Davis P-380 offers a solid steel breech block insert, steel barrel, and steel striker-type firing mechanism—all in a cast alloy frame and slide. The safety lever is at the top of the left grip panel, right where it can be reached quickly in a tense situation.

In black teflon or chrome, both with black synthetic grips.

The Davis P-32

The original member of our P-Series family of firearms remains unchanged for 1990. This is still the gun that writer J.B. Wood called "...a good, dependable gun....For personal or home defense, or for law enforcement use as a 'second gun.'"

The P-32 continues to amaze those who try it out and discover how remarkably accurate it can be within typical self-defense ranges. The 6-round magazine holds plenty of emergency firepower.

The Davis DAP Series

The Davis DAP sidearms will come chambered in .32 Auto and .380 Auto. Both are larger versions of our P-Series semi-autos, with greater magazine capacities.

The Davis D-Series Derringers

Patterned after the legendary Remington derringers of the late 1800s, Davis derringers are available in four calibers to meet your stopping power requirements: .22 LR, .22 Mag, .25 Auto, and .32 Auto.

A positive locking latch, sturdy construction, handsome wood grips on the .22 Mag and .32 Auto or distinctive pearl grips on the .22 LR and .25 Auto, and your choice of a black teflon or bright chrome finish, put the Davis derringers in a class by themselves.

The One-Caliber Solution

Self-defense authorities say that having guns in a single caliber is a very sensible way to plan one's personal protection.

Long considered an excellent caliber in Europe, the .32 Auto is now gaining respectability in America...thanks to Davis. And with both derringers and P-Series semi-autos in that caliber, you can easily and affordably have the convenience and security of multiple personal and home protection firearms from Davis.

The Davis Warranty

Our warranty is simple and to the point: IF ANYTHING GOES WRONG WITH A DAVIS FIREARM, WE WILL FIX OR REPLACE IT FREE, FOR THE LIFETIME OF THE ORIGINAL PURCHASER.

At Davis, we believe in doing things the American Way!

Our Second Amendment

Davis Industries wishes to thank attorney Brent Weil of Evansville, Indiana, for permission to excerpt information from his Constitutional law reserach.

Our Constitution gives us the right and the responsibility for our own personal protection. The anti-gunner likes to take the word "militia" out of context and claim that since the general public are not members of the National Guard, they are not the militia and therefore are not entitled to keep and bear arms.

Hogwash. The men who drafted our Second Amendment regarded the militia as every able-bodied American male between the ages of 18 and 45, a description contained in the language of the 1791 Militia Act...which was passed during the same session of Congress in which the Senate ratified our Bill of Rights. As a matter of fact, that same session of the Senate specifically rejected an amendment that would have limited the bearing of arms to the common defense and not to include personal defense.

"A well-regulated militia, being necessary to the security of a free state, the right of the people to keep and bear arms shall not be infringed."

Our freedom and independence were won, not by negotiation and diplomacy, but through armed insurrection. Surely, no more potent reminder of the importance of an armed citizenry can be provided than by the recent example of Tiananmen Square in Beijing, China.

The Second Amendment of the United States Constitution is your right as a citizen. Like all rights, however, it is also your responsibility to exercise that right...or inevitably it will be lost.
